OVERDUE PROMISSORY NOTES.

Purchaser Must Assume All Defenses Which May Be Shown—Payment by Stranger Extinguishes—There Must Be An Agreement to Constitute a Purchase.

In case No. 809, John A. Lee and Wiley M. Weaver, appellants, vs. Nellie B. Field, receiver, appellee, from the district court of Bernillo county, Associate Justice Parker handed down an opinion, which was concurred in by Chief Justice Mills and Associate Justices McPhee and Leland. Justice Crum-packer not sitting in the hearing, reversing the judgment of the lower court and remanding the cause for new trial.

This was an action of assumption brought in the district court of Bernillo county by appellee as receiver of the New Mexico Savings Bank and Trust Company, to recover on a note signed by one J. A. Johnson as maker, and by appellants as accommodation makers. The note was payable to one Emma J. Harris, and by her discounted to the Bank of Commerce, who presented it at the Albuquerque National bank, where it was payable at maturity, and received the money on it. Nearly one month after maturity the Albuquerque National bank sold and delivered the note, which it had until that time carried as a cash item in place of money it had paid to the holder, to the savings bank of which appellee is receiver, attached to the individual note of said Johnson and upon which was indorsed a memorandum: "Note of J. A. Johnson, J. A. Lee and W. M. Weaver, collateral." At the time of the making of the note sued on the Albuquerque National bank was interested in procuring a settlement to be effected between Johnson and Harris, and procured appellants to sign the note sued on, as accommodation makers, and to secure

TWO GRATEFUL WOMEN

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Can Do My Own Work."

Mrs. PATRICK DANBY, West Winsted, Conn., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It is with pleasure that I write to you of the benefit I have derived from using your wonderful Vegetable Compound. I was very ill, suffered with female weakness and displacement of the womb. I could not sleep at night, had to walk the floor, I suffered so with pain in my side and small of my back. Was troubled with bloating, and at times would faint away; had a terrible pain in my heart, a bad taste in my mouth all the time and would vomit; but now, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound, I feel well and sleep well, can do my work without feeling tired; do not blot or have any trouble whatever."

"I sincerely thank you for the good advice you gave me and for what your medicine has done for me."

"Cannot Praise It Enough."

Miss GERTIE DUNKIN, Franklin, Neb., writes:

"I suffered for some time with painful and irregular menstruation, failing of the womb and pain in the back. I tried physicians, but found no relief. I was at last persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me. I feel like a new person, and would not part with your medicine. I have recommended it to several of my friends."

them against loss, executed and delivered to appellants a bond of indemnity, conditioned to indemnify and save harmless the appellants, as indorsers on said note, and in the event said Lee and Weaver should have to pay said note or any part thereof as such indorsers, to reimburse them for all moneys which they might have to pay on account of said note. This bond of indemnity was offered in evidence by appellants and excluded by the court upon objection by the appellee. Appellants offered to prove that at the time Johnson gave the note to the Albuquerque National bank he did so at the request of the president of the bank and upon the understanding that the proceeds of the same would be applied to the payment of the note sued on in this case, and that the note sued on was to be retained simply as a memorandum of the transaction. This proof was excluded upon objection of appellee. At the close of the trial both sides moved for an instruction for a verdict and the motion of the appellee being granted, the jury found a verdict accordingly and judgment was entered thereon. The issues were made up upon a declaration, plea for the general issue, and similitur under the common law system of pleading formerly in force in New Mexico. In rendering the opinion, the supreme court held:

A purchaser of a note over due takes it subject to all defenses which may be shown against its assignor who acquired it at maturity by paying the money due thereon to the holder.

A bond of indemnity against loss executed by a third person to an accommodation maker of the note is an equity and not a legal defense and is not properly pleadable or shown in evidence in an action in law upon the note, under the common law system, brought by the holder who acquired the paper when it was over due from the obligor.

Payment by a stranger to promissory note of the money due to the holder without any agreement, express or implied, to purchase the same, extinguishes the note.

It was an error to exclude evidence tending to show whether when a note is presented for payment the transaction was payment or purchase of the note.

When a stranger pays the money due on a note at maturity to the holder, it is necessary in order to constitute a purchase that there be an agreement, express or implied, on the part of the holder to sell, and on the part of the purchaser to buy.
